About the Bordeaux Wine Council

The Conseil Interprofessionnel du Vin de Bordeaux (CIVB, www.bordeaux.com) represents nearly 10,000 Bordeaux producers and 400 négociants. The association has three missions: marketing, economic and technical. Through various communication campaigns, the CIVB promotes the interests of its members on a national and international scale. With its Economic Research Service, the CIVB aims to improve the knowledge of its membership about markets' trends, from production to distribution. Finally, its technical mission addresses all quality-related issues, anticipates new environmental and food safety stipulations, and conserves and protects viticultural heritage assets. Since 2005, Benson Marketing Group is the public relations representative for the CIVB in the United States.
